A large corner sofa sits in front of the glass-fronted log fire, with a flat screen TV that receives UK satellite programs along with a DVD player and selection of DVDs. On the second floor there is a cosy snug with beanbags and cushions that offers a TV, DVD player, WiiU console with games, books and a selection of board games - a great hangout for young and old.

The dining area looks out over the stunning village of St Martin de Belleville and Le Chatelard beyond. An elegant but informal well-equipped kitchen includes bone china crockery and Robert Welch cutlery.

These views are shared by the large private sun terrace with picnic table and rattan seating. There's a large hot tub to help you unwind after a day on the slopes and the ground floor has a ski room with heated boot warmers and ski racks.
